

The North Carolina Society for Clinical Social Work

A professional organization specifically for clinical social workers which promotes high standards of professional education, ethical practice and achievement. It is our goal to increase the expertise of the clinical social worker by providing education through workshops, presentations and courses. We also desire to protect the mental health consumer and maintain quality service through active maintenance of the NC licensure and vendorship laws and to promote consumer choice in selecting mental health professionals.

Transforming the Legacy: Couple Therapy with Survivors of Childhood and / or Combat Trauma

"In this three hour workshop, I introduce a clinical social work couple therapy practice model that addresses issues facing couples where one or both partners have experienced childhood trauma and/or combat trauma. This approach is grounded in a relationship-based, culturally responsive, research-informed and theoretically grounded scaffolding, supported by a synthesis of neurobiological, attachment, object relations and social theories. Although fortified by resilience, many traumatized couples experience a dismantling of trust, intimacy and connection. A complex biopsychosocial-spiritual assessment guides the development of a phase-oriented course of therapy. Enactments in the clinical processes are explored and illustrated with specific clinical vignettes. "

Kathryn Basham

Objectives:

1. Demonstrate knowledge of neurobiological effects and internal relational schemas that affect the couple dyad.
2. Develop a couple therapy plan guided by a complex biopsychosocial-spiritual assessment that draws upon a balance of risk and protective factors.
3. Recognize specific clinical intervention skills during each phase of therapy
4. Identify secondary trauma and re-traumatization within the clinician and develop methods to address these responses.
5. Develop methods for addressing enactments.

Kathryn Basham, Ph.D., LICSW, as Professor, Co-Director of the Doctoral Program and Editor of the Smith College Studies in Social Work, engages in research, writing, clinical social work practice and education related to the effects of deployment and combat stress on service members, Veterans and their families. Her co-authored text, Transforming the Legacy: Couple Therapy with Survivors of Childhood Trauma introduces a phase-oriented practice model grounded in a synthesis of social, biological and psychological theories.

UNC School of Social Work
Tate-Turner-Kuralt Building
325 Pittsboro Street CB# 3550
Chapel Hill, NC 27599-3550

The best visitor parking option on weekdays is in the Dogwood Deck, off Manning Dr., across from UNC Hospital. The fee is $1.25 per hour. To get to the School of Social Work (Tate-Turner-Kuralt Building) from the Dogwood Deck:

Walk left up Manning Dr. Turn right onto S. Columbia. At the Health Sciences Library crosswalk (traffic light), cross S. Columbia Street. Turn right and follow first brick path on the left. The Tate-Turner-Kuralt building will be on the right. Allow about 15 minutes walking time.

There are some closer options on weekends, such as the bank across the street from the School. Park at your own risk and carefully.
